Miss AMERITE INCE .-- This young lady made her appearance in New-York last night, at the Winter Barden, in the character of "Parthenia." We have beard something of Miss Inco in the California press, and understand that she was fairly successful in that new and not over-cruical region. Of her appearance here there was little notice, and no effort was made to perise the public of her existence beyond the ordinary exertising of the theater. This, taken in connection with a rainy afternoon, the selection of a play which is mything but a favorite, and, more than all, the fact enything but a favorite, and, more than called upon that the public have of late been so often called upon that the public have of late been without excepto judge ambitious aspirants, who have, without excepton, failed, is reason enough to excuse the thinness of Miss Ince has a good form, graceful carriage, expassive and mobile face, particularly effective eyes, entrol. Her elecution is admirable; indeed, it was s freshing, after the terrible infliction of sing-sing, jer tor, spasmodic borror under which the public have sately suffered, that in the fullness of grateful relief, we could almost pronounce it perfect. The public will understand us better, perhaps, if we simply say that his Ince read the English language in a perfectly many, natural manner, with scarcely an attempt at The part is not one to evoke strong contrasts, nor masy to make original points in it; but Miss Ince leaved a correct apprehension of the character, and leastrated it with charming effect, never once o'erstepring the modesty of nature—never once descending to hazed her audience through all the piece, without stenishing them in any part either by steutorian ;elpng or Cushmanic muscle. We know rothing of the cange of characters with which she is familiar; but if action are particularly well fitted, she would be a most valuable acquisition to any of our theaters. She will repeat " Parthenia" this evening.

A Money School-House .- The new public schoolcouse erected in the Twenty first Ward, under the trapices of the Board of Education, has recently been leted and is now ready for occupancy. The edifice cated in East Twenty-seventh street, between the of old public school-house No. 15. No pains have been spared to make this a model school-house. ITALY.- Col. Charles Carroll Hicks, late of the army of Italy and head of the staff of Gen. Avezzana, upon the invitation of several Italian gentlemen, delivered a lecture last night, at Clinton Hall, upon Italy and Garfbaldi. He gave sketches of the lives of Victor Emanuel, Count Cavour, and Garibaldi, glanced at ory from A. D. 1200 down, and related incidente of the late war, describing the passage of the Volumo and the siege of Capua, in which the lecturer was engaged.

WRIT OF HABEAS CORFUS IMPROVED .- A writ was issued last week against Mr. Barlow of the Five Points House of Industry, to recover a child; and on the hearing last Saturday, it was adjourned to Wednesday. The case was this: The father of the child was himself formerly an inmate of the House, and subsequently brought her for a home, promising to pay her board, and in default thereof the child was to be cared for by the House. In this voluntary way, there are now nearly 100 children in that institution. The father failed to pay. The writ was issued to a sister of the child in dispute. Yesterday, fearing that the case would be decided against them, the friends of the sister seemed to have conspired to waylay Mr. Barlow and seize the child; and, therefore, as he passed the corner of Park and Pearl streets, a gang of Dead Rabbits, with the sister and a mixed empany of the denizens of that neighborhood, fell upon him, and by beating, biting, and crowding, succeeded in separating the little ene from his grasp. Mr. B. shows the marks of the teeth of a virago, who did a good part of the work of the rescue, by fixing her teeth firmly in his hand. After this result of the assault, Mr. B. appeared before Judge Hilton; and it was decided the matter for the present. None of the petior counsel for the writ appeared. This is but an incident in the experience of those who labor for the good of the dwellers in the Five Points.

THE SEMI-ANNUAL BOOK-TRADE SALE .- Geo. A. Leavitt & Co., commence this morning the semi-anmual trade-sale of books, at their anction rooms in the new Trade-Sale buildings, Nos. 21 and 23 Mercer street. There are also several contributions from London, Edinburgh. and Glasgow. The catalogue contains 400 pages, and from its extent and variety, must prove an attractive

This sale is expected to inaugurate a revival of the book business, which has been suffering a good deal during the past Winter.

Many familiar faces were seen at the book-stores yes serday; the original " Hat" from Canada was among them enjoying a cigar, and an overland journey story sold by " Roman" of San Francisco. The names the purchasers use in buying cling to them forever. The ceded States cannot do without books. Not so many will attend the sale from the South as formerly, but orders from New-Orleans and other Southern cities are forwarded to agents here, who make their purchases

Pelice Commissioners .- At the meeting of the Board yesterday, the resignations of John Costello of the Fifteenth Ward, and Joseph Roman of the Eleventh, were accepted. Several transfers of policemen were

The Lobby against this bill, composed mainly of patriotic citizens who are the happy proprietors of rival railroad grants, is increasing, and it is alleged that they are resorting to argaments which it is hardly within the power of weak human nature to resist.

A BANKRUPT LAW.

Mr. Bingham, from the Judiciary Committee, reported favorably a bill to amend the Revised Statutes "of voluntary assignments made pursuant to the application of an insolvent and bis creditors," and of "general preceding articles, or some of them." BEOOKLYN FERRIES.

Mr. Nesbitt moved to take from the table the adverse report of Mr. Moore, from the Committee on Commerce and Navigation, on the bill to regulate the ferries between New-York and Williamsburgh, which was carried, 53 to 43.

Mr. Moore advocated the report, and epposed the bill at considerable length. Mr. Moore seemed to regard the proposed bill as a piece of persecution against poor, innecent George Law, who ought to have a mo-poor, innocent George Law, who ought to have a mo-nopoly and charge what he pleases because he is a common carrier, and hable for any damage he may do in conducting his ferries, in the way of running inte-sul craft, &c., in the river. Besides, he had not heard any complaint in Brooklyn in regard to the manage-ment of these ferries, and was inclined to think that they were well satisfied with them as they are.

Mr. Fisher was of a different opinion, and accounted for Mr. Moore's not hearing complaints from the reason that he does not reside in or represent the Eastern Disto an a does not reside in or represent the Eastern Dis-trict, whose people have to use these ferries. These people were very much dissatisfied with the selfish and grinding gonopoly which now had control of these ferries. The bill was a reasonable one, and the people were entitled at the protection which it provides. Messrs Proves and C. L. Andrus also sustained the bill, and in spite of Mr. Moore's eloquence, the report was disagreed to, ad the bill was referred to the Committee of the Whos. Mr. Provest feared it was too late in the session to pas the bill now, and he pre-sumed that it was held back purposely by the Chair-man of the Committee on Con-genere and Navigation, in order that it should not become a law.

AIDING TROY UNIVERSITY.

A motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill to lend (give) the Troy University $50,000 was passed, elicited a spirited—perhaps angry is a better word—debate in the Assembly. The yeas and mays had been called, also the absenters, which took a very long time, and when the Clerk had announced the affirmative vote of thacking one vote of the raquis-lie number), Mr. Pierce rose and called for the absentees. Mr. H. Smith rose to a question of order, his point being that it was not in order to call for the absentees after the affirmative vote had been announced. The Speaker decided the point not well taken.

Mr. Smith appealed from the decision, and after a lengthy debate, in which the practice of keeping open the lists in order to drum up votes to carry bills of questionable or unquestionable propriety, was severely reprehended by Mosers. Robinson, H. Smith, Dwight, Merritt, and others, the vote was taken, and the Chair was sustained, 98 to 10. After which the notion to reconsider prevailed, and in which the ruling of the Chair was sustained, 98 to 10. NAVY AND ARMY INTELLIGENCE.

Business of the Charlestown (Mass.) Navy-Yard is pretty brisk just now. There are over $00 men on the Pay-Roll, and the monthly disbursements average about $11,000. The steam-frigates Mississippi and Col orado, having been put last fail in the naval ready trin, ould be fitted out for sea at short notice. The last flagship of the China squadron, the splendid steam-ir gate Minnesota, which went out new and came home rotten, is housed, waiting commission orders. She was thuroughly overhauled before being let out of the costractors hands. The Franklin, the first American masof-war on which the novel process of conversion was tried, is lying statu que, and there is no knowing whether she will ever be finished or not. The liness Ohio and Vermont look as they have looked for years, and the Virginia remains upon the stocks, where she was placed when John Quiney Adams, who expected to see her launched, was President.

The cervette Cumberland, which arrived at Norfolk of Monday from Vera Cruz, will be docked, as she eaks.

The new Secretary of the Navy will have plenty of squadron duty to provide ships for, as soon as he gets his department in order. The following vessels are now nearly or quite their full time in commission: The Sabine and St. Louis, of the home squadron; the Congress, at Brazil; the Mobican, Mystic, Sumter, Portsmouth, and San Jucinto, of the African squadron; the Lancaster, Saranac, Wyoming, and Narraganactt, on the Pacific station; the Hartford, John Adatas, and Saginaw, in the Chinese Seas. The successors of even such of these vessels as have not yet been the specified two years in active service should be receiving their crews now at our Navy-Yard.

We stated about a week since that the garrison at Bedloe's Island consisted of 60 men. It is manned by no less than 350 regulars. The guns have been over-

About $20,000 were paid to laborers at the Navy-Yard, for their semi-monthly service. Uncle Sam is last clear with the hands.

MUSICAL.

The fifth Concert in Maron & Thomas's series took place at Dodworth's Rooms on Tuesday evening. A arger and livelier audience than usual, even, assisted, and impartially applauded the entire programme. The Concert, as a whole, was less interesting than others, though the beautiful performance of the Beethover sonata in C miner, by Mr. Mason, was of itself worthy to call together the audience who heard it. A posthumons Quintet by Mendelssohn, in B flat major, was produced; but, with the exception of a charming scherando, it was not a striking work. A sonata for piano and violin by Raff was even less attractive, in spite of Mesers. Mason & Thomas's best efforts. The sixth Quartet of Mozart, however, refreshed the listeners and carried off the evening successfully.

The Arion Society will give its second Concert this evening, at Irving Hall, opposite the Academy of Music. The solo performers will be Mr. Noll, violin, and Mr. Henry Mollenbauer, violencello-the forme giving a Mendelssohn canesto, and the latter playing one by Goltermann. Schumann's Symphony, No. 4 and a variety of choral performances, with the assist ance of a large orchestra, and the ladies of the "New-York Singing Academy," add to the attractiveness of the programme. -A brief senson of opera is promised by Music and his Associated Artists. The two Academies will be occupied on alternate rights, "Un Ballo in Maschera" eading off at the Fourteenth-street house on Monday, and "Linda di Chamounix" greeting the Brooklyn people on Tuesday.

REPUBLICAN NOMINATION FOR MAYOR .- The Brooklyn Republican Mayoralty Convention reassemoled at No. 9 Court street last evening for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Mayor in place of Mr Henry A. Kent, declined.

The Convention was called to order by Mr. D. O. Bradley, Chairman of the former Convention. After calling the list of delegates, the Chairman announced the declination of Mr. Kent, who had been ominated the previous evening, whereupon Mr. Henry Bowen of the First Ward withdrew the name of George Hadl, and nominated Mr. Wm. Coit as the Re-publican candidate for the Mayoralty.

Mr. Charles J. Shepherd of the Tenth Ward stated that be had had a conversation with Mr. Frederick Scholes on the subject of the Mayoralty, and that he expressed his readiness to accept the nomination. He thereupon moved that Mr. Scholes be nominated by acclamation. The motion was subsequently with-

of the Nineteenth Ward, were appointed a Committee to wait upon the nominee.

The Committee soon after came in with the newly-nominated candidate for Mayor, who, being introduced to the Convention by the Chairman, expressed his thanks for the unexpected honor conferred upon him. He had hoped that they would nominate a candidate from the Western District, but as they thought proper to give him the nomination, it was their duty to check him. They could do it if they went to work. There was that feeling in the Democratic party which he falt confident would prevent the election of Martin Kab-fleisch, and if the Republicans did their duty he (Kr. K.) would be defeated. Mr. Scholes again traged the Republicans to go to work; and, expressing his acceptance of the nomination, retired, amid the cheers of the Convention.

WALLACK'S THEATER.

THE NEW COMEDY.

It is a gratification to be enabled at last to announce with certainty the real, solid, substantial identity of that haffling myth whose phostly designation is " A Gentleman of this City." Last night, Mr. E. G. P. Wilkins, dramatic critic of The New-York Leader, and who, we are informed, dignifies by his literary efforts the editorial staff of another journal of this city, acknowledged the phantom corn, and permitted his name to be given in answer to the vociferous demands of the audience for the "author" of the new piece.

The play is called "Henrietta," and has, thanks to the good taste of Mr. Wilkins, no lower or sub-title. The bills tell us that it is "translated from the French, and adapted to the American stage;" but, with a modesty which can scarcely fail to make Mr. Wilkins the 'sensation" author of the day, do not claim for him the original authorship of the comedy. And yet we are enabled, from personal knowledge, to state that Mr. Wilkins is not lately from the country, but has actually been a member of the New-York press for a number of years. Of course we are now prepared to indorse most unhesitatingly the wild belief of the gentleman who put on record his conviction that wonders will never cease.

" Henriette" is a three-act comedy, which is put on the stage with an expensive attention to scenery and all things that give effect to a new play, that does credit to the management of even this house, one of the characteristics of which is thorough excellence in all such regards. The house was, despite the unfavorable weather, filled with a most enthusiastic andience. The plot of the piece scarcely admits of an intelligible analysis, the company having, on its first presentation, made some curious work of a scene or two in the early part of the play, and thus slightly bewildered the auditors. But the play is gost thoroughly and completely successful, and, after those prosy foreshadowage of the after story that seem indispensable to every play, and that are always endured rather than enjoyed by the public, had been duly placed among the minutes of the past, was enjoyed to a superlative extent by an audience whose very presence in the teeth of such weather was a noble compliment in itself.

The first act has a redundancy of dialogue, that is it is talky, and perhaps this fault makes itself slightly felt even in act second, but this blemish is easily remedied when once recognized. In literary mathematics, dramatic subtraction is by far easier than ad-

As soon as the outline of the story is sketched by the various characters in the opening scenes, the incidents begin to be appreciated in their full force, and succeed each other with a rapidity and comic effect almost bewildering, and keep the andience in a perfect gale of laughter. The incidents, border somewhat on the improbable, but are, by reason of their power, abundantly excusable, and the literations, if not absolately new, are arrived at by such unusual and effective combinations of happenings, that they come upon the observer with an irresistible effect. The adaptation is admirably made, the language is brilhant, and perfectly free from slang, and all the local references and allusions are appropriately made, and not dragged forcibly with malice, &c.

It is, perhaps, almost a matter of course, to say that the acting is admirable all through, and yet, justice to the various actors compels the thousandth repetition of that theatrical truism. Mr. Lester Wallack had a part that suited him. The same may be said of Mrs. Hoey, while Miss Mary Gannon made her bright appearance for an occasional minute or two at hourly intervals, and had no chance to act, or even to show her pleasant face long chough at a time to get a hearty recogni-tion. It seemed as if something was wrong about the part played by Miss Gannon, as if it had all been suddealy omitted but the first entrance and the corresponding exit, or some trifle of that sort.

Mrs. Sloane and Miss Morant did the best that could be done with small parts. Mr. Norten played a good part excellently well. Mr. Floyd was also good. Mr. Young had one of those opportunities, that come too seldom with him, to show that he is a thoroughly good and admirable artist, and that he but waits his time to prove that he is a much better artist than he has yet been able to show.

In reply to an enthusiastic call for "the author." Me Lester Wallack announced the name of Mr. Wilkins, of The Leader, and also stated that the piece will be acted every night till the public is otherwise notified.
